LONG PANTS SPOILED HIM.

Threatened With Incarceration, Evert Hart Left Home.

Since Evert Hart, 13 years old, who lives in the rear of No. 2104 North Tenth street, has had long pants he has been in dan-ger of going to the House of Refuge, Early yesterday he sped away to the Father of Waters to paddle his own canoe for parts unknown.

When he took to tramping she interfered, Friday she tied him to a chair in his room, where before she had often locked him to no purpose. It was then that she announced her intention to commit him to the House of Refuge. Evert cut the rope and departed, not to return until late at night.

RACE WAS GIVEN TO MAGGIE DAVIS.

Bummer Disqualified for Fouling Miss Mae Day, Whose Rider Was Thrown.

SCULLY HAD HIS LEG BROKEN.

Gold 'Or Turned the Tables on Frank Bell-Felix Bard Took Sevoy Into Camp-Race Track Results.

Bummer captured the fourth race at Kinloch Park yesterday from Maggie Davis, but was disqualified for fouling Miss Mae Day, whose rider, Jockey Scully, was thrown at the half-mile pole and had a leg held responsible for the accident to Scully, and the officials suspended him for the rest of the meeting. Scully said that Cochran deliberately ran his mount into the fence, after having attempted the same trick earlier in the race. Starter Chinn was an eyewitness to Cochran's first attempt at interference, and verified Scully's claim of foul against the rider of Bummer.

After Scully had been dismounted Bummer drew away from Maggie Davis, the only other starter in the race, and won in a gallop, but, according to Judge Burke, the boy on Maggie Davis did not persevere with his mount, his presumption being that Bummer would be disqualified. This view of the case makes it exceedingly doubtful as to whether the best horse won. Maggie Davis closed a well-backed favorite, while Bummer went up in the betting. All place bets on the three starters in the race were ordered refunded by Judge Burke.

Gold 'Or and Frank Beil had a whirlwind finish in the fifth event. Hilee and Dalkelth were the other starters in the race. Gold 'Or, Frank Bell and Hilee were well bunched to the head of the stretch. Hilee then cracked, falling completely out of it. Gold 'Or and Frank Bell went on racing like a team to the end. They came down the stretch neck and neck, Gold 'Or getting the decision by the narrowest of margins. Dalkeith was third.

decision by the narrowest of margins. Dalkeith was third.

Sevoy was beaten in the second race through a poor ride. Robertson rode the horse and put up a weak finish. Dale, on Felix Bard, rode rings around him, landing his mount first by a half length. Go Out, who is now running in Ed Burrows's colors, was third

John S. Bratton's mare, Meddlesome, beat Einstein a neck in the first race. Einstein closed a strong favorite at 9 to 10. His performance was rather disappointing.

Omdurman, who is now racing in Middleton and Jungbluth's colors, went through in the third race, winning by a neck in a hard drive from Tody Lepping. Isobel, the even-money favorite, was off badly. She finished third.

G. C. Baker's consistent seiling plater. Inuendo, annexed the hast race in a fighting finish with Domsie and Lee King. Inuendo went to the post at 10 to 1 and received a clever ride from Dale. The summaries:

Good Night Domsie Parole d'Or. Nan Dora Ethelbert Beaten in Morris Park Handleap—Conroy's White Plains.

New York, Oct. 29.—The fall meeting of the Westchester Racing Association was concluded at Morris Park to-day in a characteristic getaway manner. Not a single first or even second choice was first past the judges, long shots sweeping the card. Maid of Harlem, with little Slack up, won the Morris Park Handicap, which was the feature of the card. Imp and Bangor were scratched, leaving only four to go the two miles and a quarter, but it furnished a stirring race. Ethelbert was a hot favorite at 1 to 2, while Jack Point was held at 4 to 1 and Gonfalon and Mald of Harlem at 7 to 1 each.

They were sent off on the first break, and Maid of Harlem went out to make the running, with Gonfalon second and Jack Point and Ethelbert lapped, a length away. This was the order for the first circuit of the track, but the pace was very slow. As they rounded the near turn for the second time Slack sent his mount out and in a few strides was three lengths in front. This set the other boys to riding, and Gonfalon and Ethelbert moved up to within a length of her going up the back stretch.

Jack Point was beaten and soon Gonfalon dropped back, and only Ethelbert was left to go on after the flying leader. At the head of the stretch it looked as if Ethelbert would come on and win, but when straightened out it was seen that Odom was hard at work, while Maid of Harlem was still going along comparatively easy in front. The favorite's beaten? "Ethelbert loses" were the astonished cries which went up from the big crowd, and so it proved.

Try as he could, Ethelbert could not get nearer than one length to Maid of Harlem, and little Slack, after a clever and well-judged ride, brought her home by that margin. Jack Point was a bad third and Gonfalon was beaten off. The time was slow. The White Plains Handicap was the other fixture, and this went to Conroy at 8 to 1. He made most of the running, with Silverdale was third. Summaries:

Rider by the Jockey Club.

New York, Oct. 20.—At a meeting of the stewards of the Jockey Chub this afternoon the license of Jockey Spencer was revoked. The stewards present were: August Belmont, J. H. Bradford, James Galway, F. R. Hitchcock, James R. Keene and Andrew Miller.

Spencer's suspension is due to his riding during the present season. He has thrown away several big stakes for James R. Keene, for whom he rode. His last exhibition was on Commando in the Matron Stakes.

The only thing said about Spencer after each ride was that he was careless, eriminally so, and many wondered why the Keenes kert him in the saddle.

After the Commando flases an investigation was begun, which ended to-day, when the jockey's license was taken away from him. This means that he cannot ride in the United States, Canada or England.

Spencer refuses to talk about the matter and says that he has never done anything criminal, but admits carelessness.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—The feature of to-day's programme at Hariem was the efforts of the speedy little mare Bessie Mackilo to capture the world's record for five and one-half furiongs and incidentally to beat her own time for that distance. See failed in both attempts, coming to the fluish in 1:052-5 an essy winner over Money Muss. Had she been in faster company one or both of the records might have been touched. The track was fast. Sixth race, one mile—Ohnet, 166 (Landry), 12 to GWYNNE EVANS WON THE SPRINTS. First in the Fifty-Yard and Two Hundred and Twenty Yard Dashes.

Gwynne Evans again proved at the Colliceum last night that he is about the best sprinter in this locality by winning the fifty-yard dash in the fast time of .66 2-5 and the 220-yard dash rather easily. The finish in the fifty yards even was so close that only the judges could decide the winner. In fact, it was so exciting that the judge who was to catch the third man did not know who gained that position. As Will Wolff was third, some five or six feet ahead of John King, there was no argument over the matter. Bert Ball, the second man, is a wonderfelly quick starter, as is Wolff, but Evans came so fast at the end that nothing could have beaten him the last five vards.

In the 120-yard hurdle, King won from Wagner, with Robinson third, in the final ruling of the officials, but the laster finished second, being disqualified for knocking down too many hurdles. Robinson, who outclasses his opponents of last night as a hurdler, was sek and out of condition, this accounting for his poor work over the sticks. The pole vault went to Joe O'Reilly, who cleared 122 inches, two inches better than William Schlidmann, and eight higher than John C. Meyers, who were awarded second and third prizes, respectively.

HEIDRICK SAYS,

Young Baseball Player Asserts That His Employer, Mr. Robison, Unjustly Defamed Him.

WILL PROVE CHARGES UNTRUE.

Proposes to Produce Physician's Affidavits to Certify That He Was Unfit to Play Baseball When He Laid Off.

J. Emmett Heidrick, the young outfielder of the St. Louis Baseball Club, whose conduct last season has been sharply critized by President F. de Hass Robison, is up in arms ready to defend his good name, which he feels has been attacked. Mr. Heldrick wires to The Republic from his father's lumber camp that Mr. Robison's accusation is not true, and that he will prove it untrue by affidavits from his physicians. Mr. Heldrick says: "I played good ball and did my best. I made the great mistake of trying to do too much for the club. After I first was affected with Charley horse, I went into the game before I was fit to play and against the advice of my physician. and against the advice of my physician.

Mr. Tebeau was complaining that the club was losing and telling me I was badly needed. So to help it I went into the game when I could scarce stand, and when I knew I should not. Some players told me that playing would work the muscular trouble out of me. I tried it against competent medical advice and found that the physicians knew more than I did or than physicians knew more than I did or than other players did.

"I tried to play and broke down. After being out of the game two weeks I again tried to play and again broke down. The next week I tried it again and collapsed again. Then I laid up a month. At the end of that menth I received notice from Mr. would be laid off without pay. I wired Mr. Tebeau that I would try to play again, as I tried before, and as I was willing to try every day had I been asked to. The club for a long time, and only went in when told I would be laid off without pay. I went into the game every time I was told, even when I was a cripple, and would have gone in every inning had I been asked.

"I defy any one to prove that I ever drank intoxicating beverages; that I kept bad company or bad hours; that i ever acted save as a gentleman and a ball player should.

balling of the officials, but the latter finished second, being disquisified for knocking down too many hurdles. Robinson, who outclasses his opponents of last night as a hurdler, was sick and out of condition, this accounting for his poor work over the sticks. The pole vault went to Dao C'Relly, who cleared 122 inches, two inches better than William Schildmann, and eight higher than John C. Meyers, who were awarded second and third prizes, respectively.

The summaries:

Fifty-yard dash-Gwynne Evans, first, Feld wash-Gwynne Evans, first, William Schildmann, second (120 inches); William Schildmann, second Association Football.

The regular Sunday menting practice of the Christian Hrothers College Association football team will take place to-day at 10 o'clock sharp. Players will please report for gractice without foll, as it is the last Sunday before the opening or the season.

Mr. Heidrick is virtuously indignant, and, no doubt, righteously so. But he overlooks one very important fact. Mr. Robison was smart enough to avoid directly accusing him of anythins. He simply defity pointed out how Heidrick had laid off for three months at the club's expense, and when offered another three months' acation at his own expense, refused it.

Heidrick probably tells the truth when he explains his side of this point. It is true he did get in the game several times, and had to get out of it. owing to recurrences of his muscular contraction. He probably was it to play, and intended to do so, when he was notified that unless he did so he would be laid off without pay. But the fact remains that he did not play until notified that unless he did so his malary would cease. Then he at once played, and did not get out of the game again that season.

In all, Mr. Robison has a shade the best of the argument, and the farther arguments with his players go on the subject the better of them he will have.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 29.—Johnny McGraw reached home after having stayed over to see the cup games in Pittsburg. He declared himself glad to be back among his old friends and free from the rather uncomfortable atmosphere that has been surreunding the St. Louis Club.

When McGraw signed his contract with St. Louis he struck out the clauses that reserved him for two more years, but by the terms of the national agreement he is still served him for two more years, but by the terms of the national agreement he is still bound to the St. Louis Club if he would play in the league.

"I am now a free man," said McGraw, "and I expect that I will soon be in communication with several propositions, but as yet I have not been informed on the inside about anything, nor have I made any promises to anybody. I am not qualified to give an opinion as to the probable success of the association movement or of the plan to have the American League teams here and in Washington. If the American is to come here they will have to change the present circuit by getting some city in the East. As now constituted the railroad traveling would make it impracticable for the American to take in the cities named. I have taken every occasion to proclaim my desire to play in this city, and still have that desire. That, of course, will be a big influence in any decision that I may reach for next year."

in any decision that I may reach for next year."

McGraw is of the opinion that the National League will make a stiff fight for continued control of the baseball business, in spite of the fact that the national agreement is to run but one more season and the league is already in debt.

"The game has certainly had a slump in interest in some directions, though in others it has increased. It was the best year in the history of Pittsburg, and I understand Hanlon made money on the road. Philadelphia did well, and Boston went a little to the good."

idd well, and Boston went a little to the good."

The St. Louis Club owes McGraw about $1,250. Of this $1,000 is part of the purchase money and $200 is salary, but McGraw asid to-night that he was not worried about this, but had every confidence in Mr. Robison's ability and willingness to pay.

It has been stated that President Robison had averred that only four of the club's players had behaved themselves during the season and that he proposed to wake the others suffer. The four who had tried to make St. Louis win he named as Robinson, Burkett. Donovan and McGraw. When Captain McGraw was asked for his view as to the charges he replied: "I played ball and 'sawed wood' when I was not playing. Being a ball player. I had not then nor have I now anything to say about the men who were on the team with me."
